That is a grand espliment in the Wilsy, T. C. illage Blecksmith:

"He look the whole world in the face, For he owes not any man." nd the Philadelphia Bulletin lots us into the seet bow that universal favorite, the Blacksmith, harlequin for the sublime pleasure of being anghed at afterwards as an old fool. He did not allow hie danghter who eang in the choir to dress To Repave and Recurb the Sidewalke on the beyond his means and her appropriate, natural pobeyond his meane and her appropriate, natural position in life. He never spent money on politics, and se to his charities, no man over wes impoverished by them." Our Philadelphia contemporary calls attention to another capital lesson in the English work referred to above, in reference to young men indorsing or accepting pepor, as a matter of friendship, for their companions, and says:

friendship, for their companions, and says:

It is cometimes considered mean to refuse this. We do not intend to discourage note of friendship, where there are means to assist. Very far from it. Whall need belp, and we should all be ready to extend it. But the principle which ought to be inflexible is this: Never indorse any paper unless you are fully prepared to pay the whole. Every men is lieble to this who indorses, and any other principla is unsafe. A gentlaman of very high standing in the city, both pecuniarily and intellectually, told ue of a case of indorsing where there seemeed no possibility of loss, where the percents guaranteed ecomed es firm as the Pennsylvaions guaranteed ecomed es firm as the Pennsylva-ila mountaine. Yet lu that case the loss amounted o a large proportion of the inderser's estate. He wes ablo to bear it, but he lenrned a cevere les-bell, but to be able to go placidly down and meet the gentleman who wishes to see you, without feet of any "little bill," and to be absolutely and ungratifiedly able to walk any street in town without the faintest disposition to turn a corner, let who may loom in the distance! No man fully understands the Declaration of Independence, who is not out of debt; for the wisest of mee ea d, assrly three thousand years ago: "The borrower is servant to the lender." To use another Orientalism, the borrower never case the certain that the lender will not make him "eat dirt." o the Editors of the Louisville Journal: I will try end give you the particulars in regard to the hurning of the eteamer lickman in the Aranasas river, at Missionary Point, 22 miles below little Rock, Monday, March 5th, 5 P.M. The fire To recurb and repuve the eidewalke on the north on as the alarm of fire was given, the pilot, Mr. Dappen, llenry am Handlan, headed the boat for the Point. All Stokes, Wm H the passengers, officers, and crew nerrowly occated, sxcept a Mr. Dupree, of New Orlenns. He wes returning from the Hot Springs and was in bad health. He was burned in his enter room. A Mr. Johneban, or Johnebuo, was badly hurned. He was on his return home from the Nation. He had been absent om homo 12 years. His home was in Tennesece o was taken to the nearest house—Thos. Scruggs' is recovery is doubtful. The porter, in jumping om the hurricane roof, broke his back and leg; he Kutes, went up to Little Rock, and got the steamer Leon, Capt. Resoner, to go down and bring all up All return their thunks to Capt. Resoner for his kind attention; also to the citizens of Little Rock. P. S. A Monet Economist.—An incident which goes very far to prove that great riches do not always confer great gifts occurred at the office of the Croton Board a day or two sincn. A gentlemm, who lives in a very olegant brown-stone house, and whose income is not over $200,000 per year, and certainly not lees, sont his servant to pay his Croton tax last year, including the tax of $2 each for his coach horses, and $3 for an extrn horse, those being the regular charges. In about eix months after this payment was made, one of the horses died, and wheat the next payment fell due, he claimed atx months abatement of his rate by reason of the death of the horse. Of conrece he was clearly and legally entitled to it, and the question was referred to the propey officer, who, after meturn duliberation, declared that the nbatement should bo made if the gentleman would bring proper proof as to whether it was a two-dollar or a thren-dullur large which had died. Examination proved that the three-dollar horse had departed this life, and the eum of $1 50 was deducted from the next year's raler.—N. Y. Times.

Is rapidly advancing in the estimation of the public. It is no empirical nostram; its component principles are made known to the entire medical faculty. It is proposed accurately from the recipe of an experienced and talented physician, and has proved itself to be the greatest remedy for oil diseases of tha Lungs ever discovered; and wherever it has been introduced it has made cures which are perfectly astonishing. It is hound to supersede every other Cough Medicins before the public. Testimonials are daily being sent in to the proprietor, of cures effected every after physicians had abandoned every hopo. A single trial will convince the most increducious of its efficacy in curing that class of diseases for which it is designed. Why is it that so many dis every year of Consumption, or eoma other disease of the Lungs? Because they neglect lie earo forerunner—a "simple and,"—which might be easily cured by the prompt use of a single hottle of Dr. John Bull's "Compaund Pectoral of Wild Cherry." Post of Monday:

Somn two we ks ago Dr. Cogswell was nt work 200 murders committed in that territory within the as usual on the catalogue. It was about 11 o'clock at night, and having occasion to refer to some books at night, ned having occasion to refer to some books in a distinct part of the library, he left his desk, took his candle, and, as he had often done before, pursued his courin among the winding passeges toward the distinct aport. But hefore reaching it while in en alcove in the southwast part of the older portion of the building, he was etartled by seeing a man, respectably drassed in citizen's clothes, nurveying a shelf of books. The doctor supposed it to be a robber who had secreted hisself for the purpose of abstracting some of the valuable works in the library, after stepping heck behind a partition for a mement, he egain moved a nitiously firward to catch a glimpse of the ledividual's face, when to his surprise he recompared in the supposed robber the features of a physician (whose nems we forhear giving) who had lived in the immediate vicinity of the library, and who had died some six weeks ng.! It should be borne in mird that the decased person was a mere casuel acquaintance of Dr. Community, not un intimate frieod, and since his death Dr. Cegewell had not bought of him.

But the apparition was in the presence of a man not saily cared. The Librarlan, eo far from fainting or ebrisking, as might reasonably be expected calmly addressed the ghost:

The third night Er. Cogswell, still determined that the shirt, sport, delusion or effect of indigestion—whatever it might be—should not interest with his duties, again visited the varius books to which he wished to refer, and when occasion demanded, did not fail to approach the mystic eleove. There again was the apparition, dressed precisely as before, in a gentleman's usual costume as natural as life, and with a hand raised, as if about to take down in book. Mr. Cogswell again spoke—

"Dr. —," he esid bodly, "this is the third time I have met you. Tell me if any of this class of hooks now dicturb you? If they do I will have them removed"

But the usgrateful ghost, without acknowledging this accommodating npirit on the part of its interrogeter, disappeared. Nor has it been usen since, and the librarian has continued his nightly racearches since without interruption.
